Description: Our tour starts at the Gasthof Seestube in Hollersbach. From here, we will follow the rushing Hollersbach along the beautiful Bachlehrweg to the Senningeralm. The path takes us through a pristine alder forest, where mosses, ferns, and the impressive butterbur with its large leaves thrive. With a bit of luck, we might see water ouzels, the only diving songbirds, and in the following spruce forest, we may spot goldcrests and chickadees, as well as brightly colored lichens. Our ranger will provide information about the unique flora and fauna along the way. Before reaching the alpine hut, we will pass historical stone walls before arriving at the Senningeralm, where the valley opens up into a vast alpine landscape.
